OUR STORY

STEAMING CLAMS FOR SHUCKING
WARREN, RI - CIRCA 1957

HARVESTING CLAMS ON WARREN'S WATERFRONT
WARREN, RI - CIRCA 1957

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS

For over five generations, our family has been in the business of seafood. Our journey began when Eddie B. Blount started an oyster packing firm in Barrington, RI in 1880. By 1946, Eddie's grandson, Nelson, pioneered the transition to clams, establishing Blount Seafood's home on the historic Warren, RI waterfront.

Today, Nelson's grandson, F. Nelson "Todd" Blount, leads Blount Fine Foods as the largest fresh soup manufacturer in the country. Always keeping our local seafood roots close to our heart, we now have three clam shacks through RI, sharing our award-winning family recipes with our neighbors throughout the region. Each of our seafood soups is made on the waterfront in Warren, RI at our "World Chowder Headquarters," brimming with New England flavor.

We are proud to provide wholesome varieties of New England classics made from ingredients sourced from our local partners. The centerpiece of our chowder, our clams, come from the waters off the famous island of Nantucket, MA and are shucked right down the road from our Warren facility in Bristol, RI.

As you take each comforting bite, know that the cream comes from cows in Connecticut, just one state over, and the potatoes from northern Maine. As you enjoy each decadent taste of Lobster Bisque, rest assured that we use nothing but the best Maine North Atlantic lobster.
